

Diving Deeper into Color Theory

Are your paintings falling flat? Learn to bring them to life with this one day class on color theory. Join artist Terry Stanley as she walks you through the wonderful world of mixing colors using a split primary palette. Students will be instructed on the art of seeing color, color relationships and using color successfully in their paintings.

Students will be working on skills and technical color mixing as well as utilizing knowledge learned to begin a painting. Oil paint will be used during the class, however these principles can be applied to mediums such as acrylic and casein as well. Great for all levels.
